Computer Skills:

Word, Power Point, Publisher, Interactive Whiteboards, Social Media, iPads

My Strengths:

Innovative teaching and research, positive attitude, hard work, team work, punctuality and regularity.

My Motto:

Learning into winning. Our life is measured by the lives we touch and educate.

Achievements in Different Positions:

Extending my services as a member of Board of Studies, Subject Expert, Inspection and Selection Committees of various universities. Actively involved in various extension services besides my teaching and research pursuits. Always in search of the best, latest and healthy practices.

As the Head of the Department, I introduced several healthy practices that include organising a National (UGC) Seminar on “Gender Studies,” an International Seminar on “New Literatures” in collaboration with ISCS several workshops on different themes, and lectures language, literature and life skills.

For teaching English literature at postgraduate level, I devised a novel technique of ‘Literature through Language’ imparting language and literary competencies simultaneously to the first generation postgraduate students of English. I arranged special classes for the English learners hailing from the marginalized sections.

As Chairman of Board of Studies, I revamped the undergraduate syllabus with a paradigm shift from the traditional content based syllabus to language fluency, employability and communicative skills with a focus on learner-centeredness with practical lab tasks. I have also revised the postgraduate syllabus conforming to the UGC pattern.

As the Director, Center for Foreign Relations and Consultancy (CFRAC), I could motivate about 300 foreign scholars to turn to the Kakatiya University from 26 countries with a projected revenue of one crore per annum for the University.

As the founder Director of the BIE in 1978, I established infrastructure facilities, language Lab and other logistics, devised proficiency courses and arranged short-term programs for students of other disciplines of the University. Special courses were also designed for working people. I have devised 108 radio, videos lessons, charts and handouts on English.

As a Member of Several Committees, I familiarized myself with the problems that students face in the residential system of education; resolved several issues concerning their quality of life.

I assisted the University administration in resolving several issues of student unions, student organizations, agitations, campus unrest, ragging, group-rivalry and emotional issues of the students. On many an occasion of student unrest, I mediated between the students and the University administration in getting the issues resolved amicably.

As a part of the National Project Coordinator, UGC, SAP (DRS I) Project on “Multi-culturalism in Indian Literature,” national and international seminars were organized, the last of which is in collaboration with IACLAS on “Writing the Right”. The proceedings of the seminars are being published as books and special issues of journals. Visiting fellows were invited from different parts of the country to lecture and interact with the students, scholars and teachers of the Department.

As a Course Writer and Counselor, UG Program of BRAOU, and PG Program of SDLCE, KU, wrote and taught M.A. and M. Phil courses on English Language Teaching and Indian English Writing.

As Chairman, Board of Studies in English at Satavahana University, introduced the latest CBSC syllabus at UG and PG levels, prepared a Manual of Project Work and introduced a new paper on “Computer Assisted Language Learning” (CALL) in the third semester of M.A. English Course, during 2019-2020.
